ASUENE Launches "ASUENE DISCLOSURE," a Standalone ESG Reporting Solution

ASUENE Inc.'s carbon accounting platform "ASUENE" has launched "ASUENE DISCLOSURE," a new standalone ESG reporting solution. This solution allows users to access ESG data management and reporting tools independently from the carbon measurement function.

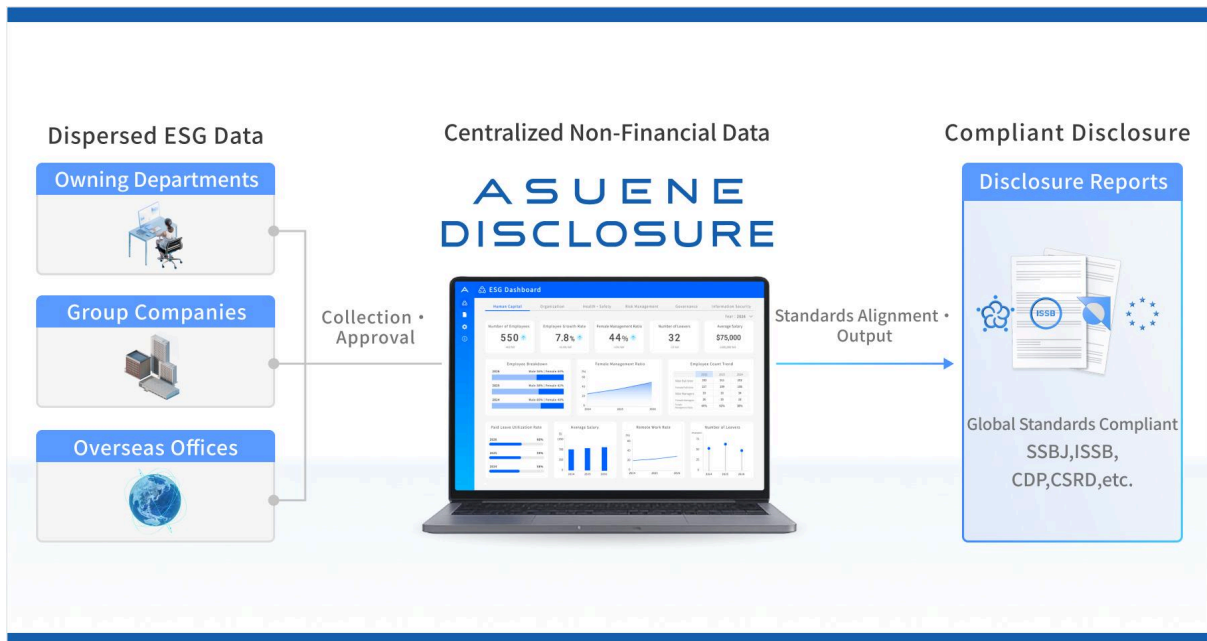

By centralizing scattered ESG data from various departments such as HR, IR, and Sustainability, into "ASUENE," the solution simplifies the creation of reports for global standards including ISSB, CDP, and CSRD. "ASUENE DISCLOSURE" was introduced to help companies manage complex sustainability data and improve reporting efficiency on a single platform.

Background of launching "ASUENE DISCLOSURE"

Global sustainability disclosure requirements, such as ISSB, CDP, and CSRD, are becoming more complex. Companies now need to report on a wide range of topics, including human capital, human rights, diversity, and governance.

Many companies collect these data manually from different departments using tools such as Excel. This process is time-consuming and often leads to errors. To solve this, we launched "ASUENE DISCLOSURE" as a standalone module. It centralizes scattered ESG data into one platform, allowing companies to manage everything from data collection to final reporting efficiently and accurately.

Features of "ASUENE DISCLOSURE"

Custom Permissions and Privacy

Administrators can set specific access rights for each department. This ensures that sensitive information, such as HR or governance data, is kept secure while maintaining an easy-to-use interface.

Enhanced Data Control

Unlike Excel, the platform allows for restricted input fields. This prevents manual errors and ensures high-quality, reliable data collection.

By transforming ESG data into actionable insights, "ASUENE" helps companies achieve sustainable growth through advanced sustainability management.
